

Corner of Rue Ramponeau and Rue de Tourville.
Photo by Amandine Chapuis

EXPLORING URBAN CRITICAL GEOGRAPHIES

A seminar series held by Amandine Chapuis

19th - 21st April 2023

Amandine Chapuis is a social geographer at the Université Paris Est Créteil – U-PEC. She's a member of the research lab on Comparative analyses of power (Analyse Comparée des Pouvoirs) and the research groups on Justice, Space, Discrimination and Inequalities at the Labex Futurs Urbains.

amandine.chapuis@u-pec.fr

PROGRAMME

Wednesday April 19th, 14.30 – 16.00

Mobilab 2, Palazzo Wollemborg, Via del Santo 26, Padova

Critical pedagogies for emancipatory geography classes: sharing experiences

Event open to: professors, researchers and anyone interested in the topic.

Moving from the experience of teaching towards political emancipation, the meeting is aimed at sharing reflections on critical pedagogies and on the ways some seminal authors have implemented their teaching practices in this perspective. How is it possible to include socially differentiated forms of appropriation of critical pedagogies in front of very diverse students?

Thursday April 20th, 8.30 – 10.30

Aula Cal 1, Complesso Maldura, Piazzetta Gianfranco Folena, 1, Padova

Tourism, Heritage and Other narratives of urban space

A joint lecture for the students of Geografia (prof. Benedetta Castiglioni) and Geografia dell'ambiente e del paesaggio (proff. Bondesan/Rabbiosi), Corso di Laurea in Progettazione e Gestione del Turismo Culturale.

This lecture will explore how heritage and tourism dynamics relate to political geographies of the city, drawing on case studies concerning feminist and decolonial issues in diverse European urban spaces.

Friday April 21st, 14.30 – 18.30

Aula E, Palazzo EX-ECA, Via degli Obizzi 23, Padova

Critical thinking in urban geography: exploring the city through gender and race

Workshop + lesson open to the students of the Master's Degrees in Local Development, Mobility Studies, and Techniques, Patrimoine, Territoires de l'Industrie and anyone interested in the topic.

The seminar will start with a workshop based on a critical implementation of a community education tool called 'the privilege walk'. Drawing on the alternative readings of inhabiting the city allowed by the workshop, the works of feminist and decolonial geographers will be explored in order to critically understand urban dynamics and political issues in urban planning, and spatial justice.

For this event only, please book your seat:

<https://www.eventbrite.it/e/biglietti-seminar-series-exploring-urban-critical-geographies-589662916657>

Please contact chiara.rabbiosi@unipd.it for any further information